A Brief Introduction about Recruitment Service

Provide free services of recruitment to companies in Macao

Points to Note before using the service

To facilitate effective recruitment, please comply with the terms stated below:

1. Employer using this service must be the direct employer of the selected candidate. The employer must complete the vacancy order form to make a vacancy order. One vacancy form is for one type of post only. If employer recruits more than one type of post, please feel free to make copies of the form and submit an individual form for each type of post.
2. Vacancy information provided by employer must be true. DSAL may require additional information to facilitate effective job-matching. If the employer fails to provide such information, the vacancy order will not be accepted.
3. Terms of the job vacancy should not be in any way in conflict with the Framework Law on Employment Policy and Workers' Rights, the Labour Relations Law and other relevant regulations, otherwise the vacancy order will not be accepted.
4. Employer must provide Macao telephone and fax numbers, as well as the information of a contact person. The contact person may be the employer or a person assigned to handle recruitment affairs. The contact person should have good knowledge of vacancy information so that DSAL can enquire or follow all issues related to the post.
5. Please submit the completed form to DSAL in person, by fax (no. 2582 8511) or by e-mail (recruit@dsal.gov.mo). A registration slip will be issued by DSAL to confirm that the vacancy order is accepted after information in the form is verified.
6. If the recruitment is a case of non-resident worker importation to be applied, contact information of the employer will be published. Job seekers may contact the employer directly so that the vacancy can be filled by local resident as soon as possible.
7. Candidates referred to employers for job-matching purpose are local residents only. A brief profile of each suitable job seeker will be sent to employers for selection. The employer should reply whether an interview will be arranged for job seekers referred by DSAL within 5 working days. If the employer does not reply within the stated period, he/she will be considered as giving up recruitment and the vacancy order will be cancelled.
8. The employer should notify DSAL about the results within 10 working days after interviewing the candidates. Otherwise, it will be considered that the employer has no intention of hiring the candidate. If a candidate is hired, the employer should provide employment details so that DSAL can follow up accordingly.
9. Each vacancy order will remain valid for 2 months. When the vacancy order is still valid, another vacancy order for the same post will not be accepted. If there is any change in the vacancy order, or the vacancy is filled, please contact our staff who follows up your vacancy order or the Employment Department ("DE") by phone (no. 28722108).
10. DSAL reserves the right to edit, display and promote vacancy information.

Privacy Policy on Collecting and Processing Personal Data

1. DSAL will take proper measures stated in this policy to keep information filled in by employer in the vacancy order form for job-matching purpose confidential. Handling procedures involving this service have been registered with the Office for Personal Data Protection (Registration Number: R0260/2012/GPDP).
2. Employers have the right to access or rectify information filled in the vacancy order form through written means.
3. Job seeker information provided to employers is for job-matching or arrangement for interviews only. If the employer utilizes such information for other purposes, he/she will be subject to relevant legal responsibilities.
4. Depending on the need of a specific service or of fulfilling legal responsibilities, personal data collected and handled by DSAL may be transferred to other administrative or judicial organs.
5. Please note that the privacy policy will be updated online when it is deemed necessary.
